Immel Property

Purchase of 1,157 acres of Perry township land to be added to the fast-moving Rural Resettlement project was announced Friday by Kenneth A. Browning, of Chillicothe, project manager. The land includes 707 acres of property owned by Harry G. McGhee, and 450 acres in the G. S. Fullerton tract, formerly the Douglas land. Purchase price was not disclosed.

Construction of homesteads will begin at once on the newly-acquired land, Browning said.

Ten tracts of land, totalling 4,700 acres, are now being prepared for farm occupancy by government workers. Included are the Phillips, Miller, Temple, Hancock, McGhee and Fullerton tracts on which little work has been done, the Hulke land where nine residences are being constructed, the Porter land where three sets of buildings are being erected, and the Immel property where 10 houses and barns are nearing completion. Fifteen more properties are being completed on Radcliff land near Londonderry. The farm stands, range from 10 acres to 70 acres.

Some Homesteads Ready
Federal workers are centering their attention on the Immel property in Wayne township where many homesteads will be completed and ready for occupancy before winter. Seventy-five men are busy daily on the Immel land under Nelson M. Brown, construction engineer. (Continued on Page Ten)

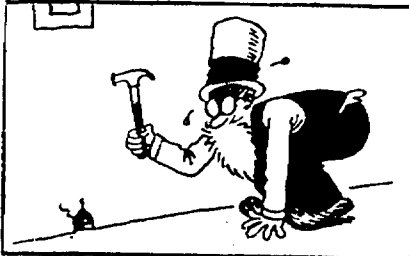

JUDGE DEPARTS WHEN WOMAN FLOURISHES GUN

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(UP)—Judge Thomas Prendergast had the "jitters" today when during a divorce hearing Mrs. Winnie Marquis suddenly produced a revolver and shouted: "Look out, it's loaded."

The judge made an undignified exit from superior courtroom behind numerous attorneys and on-lookers.

Mrs. Marquis, flustered by the excitement, explained that she only wished to demonstrate how her husband threatened to shoot her.

26 Killed In French Train Wreck

Express Jumps Tracks Near
Paris—40 Reported Hurt
In Accident

PARIS, July 30.—(UP)—Twenty-six persons were killed and 40 were injured seriously today when the Saint Etienne Express, speeding toward the Vosges mountains at more than 60 miles an hour, was derailed at Villeneuve, Saint Georges, 12 miles from Paris. Twenty-two bodies were removed from a single wooden car which burst into flames after being crushed between two steel cars as if in a vise. Some of the dead were burned alive. At least two bodies still were pinned under the wreckage, and rescuers feared they might find more.

A railroad communique attributed the wreck to a switchman's error, but later examination showed that the train had jumped the tracks after speeding across a switch that had failed to close properly.

The hospital at Villeneuve soon was overtaken, and many of the wounded, badly mangled were brought to hospitals here. Survivors told how the wooden cars had been like match boxes between the heavy steel cars. Practically all casualties were in the wooden cars.

Passengers were mostly vacationists bound for the mountain resorts. Among the unidentified dead were a 7-months-old baby, two boys about 7 and 13 and five women.

WORK OR GO TO PRISON, IDLERS TOLD IN TEXAS

GONZALES, Tex., July 30.—(UP)—It was a jallable offense in south Texas today to speak to a cotton picker.

A labor shortage had become so acute that every man caught idling was given his choice of jail or the cotton field, and anyone who tried to lure an able-bodied man to some other section with a promise of more money could expect summary justice.

"Cotton pickers—get out of town or you'll be landed in jail," was the warning posted here.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Wallace Ray said he had escorted two strangers out of town for approaching cotton pickers and he had officers patrolling the streets to guard all workers from outside employers.

"The same thing goes for loafers," Ray said. "They can't sit around here in the shade all day. We are not going to stand around and see the fine crop ruined for lack of field hands."

LIFE NOT MUCH OF A BARGAIN, YOUTH DECIDES

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(UP)—Life, as 16-year-old Tommy Farrell looked at it from his seat on a park bench, was not much of a bargain.

Tommy's father deserted the family. Tommy contracted tuberculosis. His mother was unable to provide him with proper food and medicine and sent him to the industrial home school.

It was more than Tommy could bear, confined at the school, thinking about his mother struggling along on a $60 a month job and with three other children.

Tommy ran away. But he got no farther than the park bench before Patrolman Henry Brown caught up. "Sorry, son, but I guess I'll have to take you in," Brown said.

Tommy looked up at the uniformed patrolman, screamed and ran to the edge of a 15-foot archway leading up into the park. Without hesitating he plunged over.

Now he has more trouble—a broken leg, a fractured jaw, a broken nose and brain concussion.

Flames Sweep Stern Wheeler
In Chesapeake Bay—
Inquiry Starts

BALTIMORE, Md., July 30.—(UP)—The smoldering wreckage of the 26-year-old Stern-Wheeler City of Baltimore wallowed in Chesapeake bay today as officials counted two dead, five injured and two missing in a fire which converted the vessel into a blazing furnace last night.

Safe on shore were 91 passengers and crew members, many of whom were forced to leap—lifebelt clad—into the chill waters of the bay to escape scorching flames which flared from an unknown source below deck and amidships.

One crew member, a fireman named Callis, reported himself safe at 9 a. m. today after being listed as missing throughout the night.

Boats Aid Rescue

Scores of rescue boats, many of which worked all night picking up survivors, still plied about the smoking stulk in an attempt to locate the two persons—one crewman, one passenger—still unaccounted for.

Three naval airplanes from the nearby U. S. naval academy at Annapolis made a survey flight over the scene shortly before dawn, but sighted no bodies or survivors. The pilots reported the City of Baltimore was destroyed, with only the blackened boilers and smoke-stack protruding above the water line. The steel hull of the vessel, owned by the Chesapeake Steamship Company, was aground near Pinehurst, a village on the bay shore.

Fire Starts Below Deck

The fire broke out soon after 7:30 p. m. (EST). The ship had sailed from Baltimore at 6:30 for Norfolk, Va. Fire started below decks, in or near the galley, and in less than an hour the 2,378-ton (Continued on Page Ten)

JUPE PLUVIUS LOSES FAVOR AT WAYNESBURG

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 30.—(UP)—Jupiter Pluvius was terribly unpopular today as a rain god in Waynesburg today.

It didn't rain here yesterday. This little college town is very proud of its tradition that it always rains on July 29—or nearly always. A tattered old log book that someone started years ago showed that it rained every July 29 from 1875 to 1936 except twice and one of those times occurred in the drought year of 1930.

But it didn't rain here yesterday so that makes three rainless July 29's in 82 years.

Byron Daily, the 50-year-old druggist who carefully keeps the records, dolefully made this entry in the log book today: "July 29, 1937—no rain."

Daily is so confident that it will normally rain on July 29 that has made a standing bet of a hat against a hat that it rains. The rainy day has become such a tradition that he found no takers of his bet though the sun shone brightly yesterday.

But at the last minute, Daily talked Louis Rappart, proprietor of a dress shop, into betting a shirt—"the best shirt in town."

So, the veteran druggist was especially downhearted today.

Those who have faith in the tradition carried their umbrellas and raincoats to work yesterday, scolding the government weather forecast of "fair and warmer."

Police Object to "Singing" Pickets, Arrest 64 for "Noisy Assemblage"

"Singing" pickets on steps of a Cleveland police station

REPEATED concerts by "singing" pickets in front of the Federal Knitting mills in Cleveland brought the arrest of 64 by police on a charge of violating an old ordinance forbidding "noisy assemblage". Police Captain Edward J. Flanagan said he had "warned" the women to quit their concerts "because of complaints". A police

ADMINISTRATION FIGHTS AGAINST WAGE BILL FOES

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(UP)—Administration leaders fought today to ward off a threatened death blow to the pending wages and hours bill that might disrupt the entire pre-adjournment legislative program.

The labor standards bill sponsored by Sen. Hugo L. Black, D. Ala., and previously expected to pass after a stiff battle, appeared likely to become the most vital key to adjournment as a result of unqualified statements in congressional circles that leaders of the American Federation of Labor favored sending it back to committee.

The outcome of an anticipated motion to kill the measure for this session by returning it to the labor committee was in doubt. Administration strategists admitted that they probably could muster only a five-vote margin against such a motion. Some opponents of the bill expressed belief that there were sufficient senate votes to return the measure to committee.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, had been driving the wages and hours measure toward a vote by calling the senate into session an hour earlier than usual each day and by planning a session tonight if necessary. But whether those tactics would be continued in view of the admitted gain in the strength of the opposition was undecided.

House members, meanwhile, were called to an emergency meeting by a non-partisan committee of 17 to block adjournment until the labor bill is enacted.

HUSBAND HELD AS SLAYER OF WIFE, AGE 14

HARLAN, Ky., July 30.—(UP)—Word Ayres, 42, was held in jail here today waiting arraignment on a charge of murdering Myrtle Jones Ayres, his 14-year-old child bride.

The girl was found seated in a chair at her home yesterday, dead from a bullet wound through her head. There was no powder burns, officers said, indicating the shot had not been fired at close range. A .38 caliber pistol lay on the floor nearby.

Ayres said that he and his wife had been scuffling and that the pistol had been discharged by accident. He will be arraigned Saturday.

At a coroner's inquest witnesses testified they saw Ayres running along railroad tracks near his home a few minutes after hearing a shot.

Employers Meet to Map Defense Against Unions

HERSHEY, Pa., July 30.—(UP)—Organization of Opposition to C. I. O. and A. F. of L. unions was the objective of a closed conference of manufacturers opening in this chocolate town today, the United Press was advised.

A source close to the Hershey Chocolate Corporation management confirmed unofficially a report current in industrial circles that heads of manufacturing concerns from "all parts of the United States" were invited here to plan a defense against craft unionism and John L. Lewis' committee for Industrial Organization.

The spokesman said he was advised by "authoritative sources" that the purpose of the two-day meeting was to organize a national movement against domination of labor by the unions headed by Lewis and William Green.

The informant said the industrialists would hold sessions in Milton S. Hershey's "little theater" which seats 900 persons. Hershey, owner of this "model company town," locale of a C.I.O. sponsored sit-down strike last April, could not be reached for comment. His press agent said he was positive that Hershey was not the instigator of the meeting. The corporation's building superintendent said the independent chocolate workers, a union of Hershey Chocolate plant employees organized after the April strike sponsored by the C. I. O., made arrangements with him for use of the "little theater" today and tomorrow.

Don Cassidy, secretary of the independent chocolate workers, refused to confirm, deny or "comment in any way" on information regarding the purpose of the week-end meeting or who would attend it.

NEW DEVICE TO COUNT SHEEP FOR SLEEPLESS

CHICAGO, July 30.—(UP)—A mechanical "sheep counter" with all the advantages of a cradle rocking gently to the hum of a lullaby or the swishing of waves on seashore was announced today by Psychology Professor J. B. Morgan of Northwestern university.

The device lulls the sleepless into dreamland with a low, undulating "hum hum," the professor explained. He tried it on orphans, school children and psychology students.

It consists of an oscillating diaphragm, some sound-producing machinery, and a motor. It emits a tone which increases and decreases in intensity 20 times a minute.

"Most persons slow down mentally and physically in keeping with this slow, rhythmic sound," he said. "Informal tests confirm my theory that sleep is produced by response of nerves and muscles to slow rhythm and low tone. No one ever went to sleep to band music, or jerky cradle-rocking."

BRITAIN SEEKS TO AVERT WAR IN FAR EAST

LONDON, July 30.—(UP)—Great Britain intends to do everything in her power to avert war in the far east and is maintaining close contact with France and the United States, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared in the House of Commons today during a full debate on foreign affairs.

He deplored the present conflict between China and Japan.

Eden also declared that Britain will continue to work faithfully in Europe to avoid war over the Spanish issue. He defended non-intervention, declaring it had served to avert war.

The debate was started by Maj. Clement R. Attlee, labor leader, who demanded that the government call a special session of parliament before it made any move towards granting belligerent rights to the Spanish insurgents.

He intimated strongly that the government might be well advised to force the Spanish civil war before the League of Nations.

"I ask," he said, "whether the time has not arrived when the whole matter should be dealt with authoritatively by the league."

"If the Spanish ulcer continues to fester very much longer it may destroy the peace of the world."

U. S. TO STAND CLEAR OF SINO JAPANESE WAR

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(UP)—The administration's determination to stand clear of war developments in the Far East was emphasized today by a formal statement issued by Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, urging freedom of action for the president and secretary of state.

Pittman, Nevada democrat, rebuked those persons who "are impatiently and unreasonably" urging President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull to state what action will be taken by the president under the neutrality act toward China and Japan.

"In so serious a matter while our government is making every effort to bring about a cessation of the unfortunate situation and to protect the lives of our citizens in China through diplomatic conversations the propriety and the danger to the best interests of our country of public discussions by the president and the secretary of state are obvious."

TOKYO, July 30.—(UP)—The newspaper Nichi Nichi reported from Peiping today that 200 Japanese refugees in the city of Tangchow had been massacred.

The paper said Chang Chin-Yu, chief of the East Hopei Peace Preservation bureau, had resigned against his own government in an effort to overthrow Yin Ju-Keng, head of the Japanese-sponsored regime in eastern Hopei.

Yin Ju-Keng was reported missing and some believed he was kidnapped.

The Nichi Nichi reported that the Japanese victims at Tangchow consisted of some from Peiping and other local residents of Tangchow, believing the "triangle protection" of eastern Hopei authorities was certain.

War Spirit Flames Through Japan as the government believed that it might take advantage of the Chinese crisis to try to form an autonomous North China regime.

Every hour saw a heightening of the martial spirit. Newspapers rushed extras to the streets, news reels of fighting showed to packed houses, civil labor and political organizations flooded the government with resolutions of support and of thanks to the army.

Government officials expressed doubt that there would be any declaration of war. Their idea was that they were proceeding only against "recalcitrant" elements in China. The people at large seemed to be unanimous in the belief that Japan must "punish" China and eliminate anti-Japanese activities.

A hint that Japan would take this opportunity to extend its domination. (Continued on Page Ten)

MAYOR HAS ONE DAY TO DECIDE RATE PROBLEM

Mayor W. J. Graham has one more day in which to take action on the 10-year electric light rate contract—or accept the easiest way out by ignoring the legislation, thus permitting it to become law without his signature.

Council by a 4-2 vote nine days ago passed the ordinance offered by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. after its third reading. John C. Goeller, president of council, refused to sign the action, declaring that he was opposed to a light contract for a 10-year period.

It was placed in Mayor Graham's hands by Clerk Fred Nichols after the clerk testified to council's action by signing it. The mayor has done nothing about the ordinance; neither has he said anything about it other than that he had not reached a decision.

Saturday is the last day he has, according to the municipal code, to sign or veto the legislation. If he does neither the ordinance becomes law without his name. If he vetoes the act a two-thirds vote of council is necessary to approve it.

GARY COOPER LOSES JEWELRY TO BURGLAR

HOLLYWOOD, July 30.—(UP)—Gary Cooper's home was burglarized of more than $18,000 in jewelry early today.

The movie star's palatial home was ransacked shortly before Cooper and his wife, the former Veronica Balfe, returned from visiting friends. In addition to the gems, the burglars took expensive dinner plates and even took away the keys to the house, he said.

Six Scouts from Troop 107, M. E. Church, Circleville, and Troop 158, American Legion Post No. 134, Circleville, arrived at the Boy Scout Reservation, Delaware, Ohio Wednesday afternoon. They were among the 200 Scouts from the Central Ohio Area who took camp by storm, taxing facilities to the full.

Every aspect of the camp and its facilities that had been allowed to deteriorate during the last few years of disuse, has been reconstructed or improved in a permanent way.

On arriving in camp, the Scouts met Gerald Pontius, the business manager, to whom they paid the balance of their fees, and were assigned to one of the five "villages" on the Reservation. Then, having moved equipment and clothing to their cabins, Scouts were given a complete medical and physical examination at the First Aid Station by the camp physician, J. Martin Byers. Dr. A. A. Hall, of Columbus, and chairman of the Health and Safety Committee of the local Scout Council was in camp and assisted.

Waterfront Activities

Another feature of the camp is the waterfront and its many activities. Every Scout was given a swimming "placement" test, so that he might be included in a group of fellows with similar swimming abilities. This was done so that the Scouts might improve their own skill in a group where they need not be embarrassed by the fellows who are better than the average. Donald Battin, of Columbus, is director of the aquatic program, and is assisted by Thomas Gee, of Delaware.

The villages of the camp are organized on the regular Scout Troop basis, four patrols of eight boys each, with their own patrol leader, Scoutmaster, Assistant Scoutmaster and Senior Patrol leader.

Many Troops Attend

Some Troops came as a body. In a case of this kind, the entire Troop occupied one of the camp villages. Where only a few boys from a Troop came to camp, they were quickly organized into patrols and Troops and a Scoutmaster provided from the resident camp staff.

Troop campfires were the main events on the program for the Scouts' first evening in camp. It was at these affairs that they completed the organization of their patrols and learned to know their Scoutmasters and the other fellows in their own villages. The men who are serving as Scoutmasters during the second period of the season are: Fred Strother of Columbus, Baird Heffron of Columbus, William Goslin of Lancaster, Howard Kautz of Lancaster, and John Zechman of Columbus. These men are all experienced Scouters and have had several years of camping activity. All of them were either on the senior staff of last year's camp or came to the camp with their own Troops.

Study Nature

The development of a Nature Trail and a Nature Study department is the new feature of the camp this summer. The Nature Trail winds through about a mile of the wooded area of the Reservation. Many plants and trees have been labelled so that Scouts and visitors will know some of the names and something of the habits of the natural surroundings. Bits of poetry and philosophy on signs over the trail make the Nature Trail one of the most inspiring features of the camp. Bill Goslin of Lancaster, Ohio, and a student in the forestry college at O.S.U., is responsible for this splendid new addition to the camp's program this summer.

The Scouts from Pickaway County who registered for the thirteen-day period at the Scout Reservation are: Carl Bach, George Helwagen, Kenneth Helwagen, David Yater, David Eagleston, and David Orr.

LEROY BUSSART TO FACE TRIAL AT COLUMBUS

Leroy Bussart, 35, alias John Meade, a Columbus insurance agent, will be returned to Columbus Friday or Saturday from Detroit to face trial in federal court for alleged robbery of the Laurelville postoffice.

Bussart, Detroit authorities say, has admitted looting the office after tying Mrs. Damon Pontius, assistant postmistress. The robbery was June 28, a single man perpetrating it.

The insurance agent had protested his return to Columbus, saying he wished to avoid embarrassing his family.

Bussart is accused by the government of taking $100 in cash and 90 money orders from the Laurelville office. Mrs. Pontius was found tied and gagged.

When Bussart was arrested in Detroit he was using the name John Meade.

COUNTY SEEKS CASH RETURN ON PENSION BILLS

County officials took steps Friday to collect $587.44 from the state for expenses of the Old Age pension office. Auditor Forrest Short instructed his deputies to compile a list of bills paid by the county for support of the office after he was informed that Pickaway county should never have spent any money for rent or other expenses of the administration locally.

Walter Garrison, deputy supervisor of the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices, wrote Short that the Old Age pension division is a state project in its entirety. The law explains that no county money shall be paid to sustain it.

The commissioners, following a lengthy controversy have decided to provide the recorder with more office space in the annex to the courthouse after having assigned the room intended for the recorder to the Old Age pension bureau, headed by T. D. Krinn. The pension office will be provided a room in the basement of the annex.

Since the pension administration was inaugurated bills have been approved by the commissioners for its support.

R. L. BREHMER IS HONORED BY OHIO FLORISTS

Robert L. Brehmer, Circleville florist, was the proud possessor of a valuable and beautiful watch, Friday, a gift of the Ohio Flower Growers' and Retailers' association of Ohio. The watch was given to Mr. Brehmer by the association for the work he did during the recent session of the legislature for the flower industry in Ohio.

He devoted much time to promotion of a measure that would have provided greenhouses at Ohio State university. Although the legislature approved the bill, Governor Davey vetoed it after the appropriations measure had been voted.

The watch was presented to Mr. Brehmer by Prof. Alex Laurie, of Ohio State university, secretary of the association.

Mr. Brehmer is a past president of the Growers' and Retailers' association.

Due to improvements in handling materials and rolling stock, fire losses on United States railroads last year were less than half the loss in 1926.

Americans Buy Fake Top Hats LONDON (UP)—At least 24 Americans who came to London for the Coronation bought top hats they believe were once worn by the Duke of Windsor. A daring swindler, it has been revealed, bought two dozen second-hand "toppers," cleaned, pressed, and stitched new leather bands with the royal crest on them. Then he sold them as "one of the Duke of Windsor's top hats."

BURGLAR FAILS IN RAID ON LOCAL STORE

Thief Discovered By Night Watchman, But Escapes Through Window

NO MERCHANDISE LOST

Officials Believe Raider Was Boy—Trail Is Being Followed

Police are hunting a man whose attempt to rob the Stiffer store, S. Court street, was frustrated by Merchant Policeman Walter Chrissinger. The store was entered Thursday evening, but Chrissinger discovered the attempt before a robbery could be perpetrated.

The merchant policeman was making his rounds at 9:30 o'clock when he walked into the alley between the store and the G. C. Murphy Co. building. He noticed a grating on the ground in the alley beside the Masonic building, which houses the Stiffer store, and flashed his light into the window. The glass had been removed from one of the panels.

Burglar Escapes
Chrissinger ran to the E. E. Clifton's garage to call the sheriff's office for assistance before he entered the building. The burglar was still in the basement of the store when he saw Chrissinger's light being flashed. He made his getaway by forcing his way through a window 10 feet above the ground. His footprints were found in the alley next to the Clifton garage.

Police arrested a youth, his name not disclosed, when he walked from the alley a few minutes after the burglary attempt was discovered. He was booked for investigation.

Raid Is Fruitless
A check of the store disclosed that nothing was missing. The thief did not find time to steal anything, if reconstruction of his flight is true. Chrissinger believes the prowler was in the cellar when he flashed his light through the window. Certain that the forced entry had been discovered, the person on the inside used an automobile jack, that he had carried with him, to escape from the basement. He placed the jack on the top step of a flight leading to the main floor. Cranking the jack, the basement door was forced open. Two counters, both filled with merchandise, were moved several feet when the cellar door was raised. They usually stand over the door.

It is possible the burglar tried to get out the back door, but found it would take him too long to remove bars and force the lock. He scrambled over a garment case prior to smashing out a window. He leaped to the alley and fled.

Youth Suspected
Police believe the thief must have been a youth of medium size. Deputy Sheriff Robert Armstrong, who answered Chrissinger's call for help, was able to squeeze through the outside window to enter the store. Chrissinger, even larger than Armstrong, could not get through. Neither Armstrong nor Chrissinger could have gone through the window on the main floor of the store.

The burglar left behind a screw driver that he had used to pry the window glass from its frame to gain entrance. The jack was found on the cellar steps where he had abandoned it in his flight.

Police were checking fingerprints on the screw driver and jack, Friday.

TWO ESCAPE INJURY IN CRASH OF AUTOS
Two motorists escaped injury Thursday at 8:35 p. m. when their automobiles collided under the traffic light at Main and Scioto streets. They were Jack Chandler, Williamsport Route 1, and Henry Caudill, Watt street.

Front left sides of both cars were damaged. Patrolman Alva Shasteen, who investigated, said both men crowded the middle of the street.

HERBERT BRAGG, JOHN WILLIAMS TO BE PAROLED

Herbert Bragg, convicted of robbery, and John Williams, serving time for burglary and larceny, will be paroled next Fall from the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield. Bragg will be released Nov. 15 and Williams will go free Sept. 1.

Bragg, a resident of Columbus, will probably be returned to Pickaway county to face a charge of abduction of Miller Beckett, Commercial Point banker. Beckett was forced into a car near his home in Commercial Point by several robbers, one of whom was Bragg. The Columbusite was charged with robbery instead of abduction in his trial, but the kidnapping indictment may be pressed by Prosecutor George Gerhardt.

Forty-two other Mansfield inmates will be paroled soon.

BANK WORKERS ARE SUBJECT TO TAXES ON JOBS

MILLERS RETURN FROM GAS COMPANY TOUR
Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Miller, S. Washington street, have returned home after a week's conducted tour, sponsored by the Gas Company. They visited Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Rochester, the Thousand Islands, Montreal, Quebec, Albany, and New York city in company with more than 100 other Gas Company employees and their wives.

Mr. Miller, of the Circleville office, was the only salesman in the Athens district to sell enough Electrolux gas refrigerators in an April 1-June 30 campaign to win the trip with all expenses paid.

Viking Village in Scotland
WICK, Caithness, Scotland (UP)—The first Viking dwellings ever known on the mainland of Scotland have been discovered by Dr. A. O. Curle, Edinburgh archaeologist, near the sea at Frewick, Caithness. William Essick Shows Improvement in Health

Thirty-eight years is a good while to be employed at one place and at one kind of work. Met William Essick and especially inquired of him how he was feeling since his severe heart attack a few days ago. He is up and about again but not near back to normal. Said his finger—what was left of it after he clipped some of it away a couple of weeks ago—seems to be on the road to getting well now, but just how soon he can go back to work again at the Ashville Grain Elevator, he does not know. Bill belongs to the "old timer" gang and did the moulding for Lewis & McMurray when they manufactured bricks here at least forty years ago. We have gathered up quite a list of names of the old brick yard force an "one of these days" will give an Ashville brick making story.

Emerson Squire, who was waylaid and robbed by footpads in New York City ten days ago, still is confined to his bed and it will take some time before he is able to be up and about again. His mother is with him.

There is a possibility that the local cannery may be operated in the corn pack but not likely, unless the crop should make a better showing than is expected. The pumpkins, though are reported as "coming along fine" and these will be packed here which will furnish work for quite a few.

Postmaster Stanley Smith was in Chillicothe yesterday, and met, along with a dozen or more other postmasters, the Postmaster General, James Farley, of Washington. He made a short talk to the boys.

We were "taken down the line" yesterday by one of our "old timer" bunch for calling our old Ed. Messick's parking place in the shade of what we called "Stoney's tree." This Old Timer, we will admit has our time beat when he said he positively knew that the late James Long, postmaster for several years, had planted the tree where it now stands because he, himself, assisted Mr. Long in doing the planting. We are referring to one Dallas Griffith who has served our village faithfully and well for many years as marshal and street commissioner, school board clerk and all-around helper—work on either side. No, we do not refer to politics. Never could teach him anything about that. Will try to "dig up" a list of our Postmasters one of these days at least from George Morrison to the present time.

And Mr. Griffith told us about the time when a young man, a stranger here, purchased a dollar's worth of postage stamps from the then Ethel Allison, clerk in postoffice while her father, S. C. Allison, was postmaster. He "forgot" to pay for them and down town he went at a swift pace. Those who happened to be near captured him and he was turned over to the federal authorities for treatment.

A lunch will be served at the Scioto Valley Creamery on next Thursday at the noon hour. This is a get-together meeting of the Ashville business men and others who may be invited.

Elmer Malone and family and G. D. and Mrs. Griffith were at Lancaster Wednesday evening to get a supply of blackberries which are grown on a 30-acre field adjacent to the farm.

Joining Forest Rose cemetery and is in part operated by Howard Griffith who resides there with his father-in-law. They also visited with the Bowmans, Mrs. Bowman being the daughter of the Griffiths. . . . met Mrs. Flora Squire sitting in an auto by the postoffice yesterday evening. Her daughter, Mrs. Martha Snyder, had taken her mother for a ride the first the mother has been able to be out since her return from the South.

Vernon Peters, son of Jerome Peters, St. Paul, and who has been here from Welsh, Louisiana, for the past ten days, started for home this morning. Said that his 250-acre rice patch is doing fine but that it would not be ready to harvest until near October. As a side issue they keep about 200 head of cattle on their plantation.

"Mountain Music" is the tale of Bob Burns who runs into Martha in a strange city. Bob thinks he's wealthy, and so does Martha, and when they discover that he's really only a hillbilly who ran out on marriage to a girl he didn't love, it's a shock to both of 'em.

And now on the screen you'll hear beautiful Virginia Bruce singing as she's never sung before when this silver-voiced star appears in Universal's gaily romantic picture, "When Love Is Young" at the Grand Theatre Friday.

Miss Bruce sings two hit songs, especially for her individual style of singing. She'll thrill you with such romantic ballads as "Did Anyone Ever Tell You?" and "When Love Is Young."

This picture achieves the perfect blending of music, romance and comedy. It is the story of a country girl who, snubbed by school mates, goes to New York to study singing. She finally gets her big opportunity through a Broadway press agent, played by handsome Kent Taylor. Much of the high comedy is supplied by the character actor, Walter Brennan.

One Out of Five Accidents
Due to Auto Trying to Cross Occupied Track

132 CRASHES IN 1936

Railroads, Trying to Reduce Fatalities, Ask Motorists
To Cooperate

About 20 per cent of all highway grade crossing accidents on the Norfolk and Western Railway last year were due to automobiles being driven into the sides of trains, the railroad said in a statement today which appealed to the "automobile driver to do his part in preventing crossing accidents."

"Incredible as it may seem," the statement says, "132 automobile drivers last year drove through and broke down crossing gates which had been lowered for their protection."

A recent check at a number of protected crossings on the N. & W. revealed, according to the statement, "that of the total number of automobile drivers who arrived at crossings after the warning signals had begun to operate and before the trains had reached the crossings, 61 per cent continued across the tracks in utter disregard of the warnings. In practically every case the attitude and conduct of the driver indicated a full consciousness of the signal warning and its purpose."

Declaring that the railroads are doing their part to solve this serious problem, the railway said, "the Norfolk and Western has expended more than $3,400,000 within a recent ten-year period for the elimination of crossings on its lines. To safeguard the thousands who cross its tracks at grade, the railway has spent more than $780,000 for the installation of protective devices at crossings. For the maintenance of these devices and the pay of gatemen and watchmen, it spends annually $240,000 annually. For years, the N. & W. has carried on a vigorous and unrelenting campaign to educate the automobile driver to 'Stop, Look and Listen.'"

Grade crossing accidents on the N. & W. have been reduced 40 per cent during the past ten years. The railroad attributes this reduction "largely to its huge expenditures and constant vigilance in the interest of public safety."

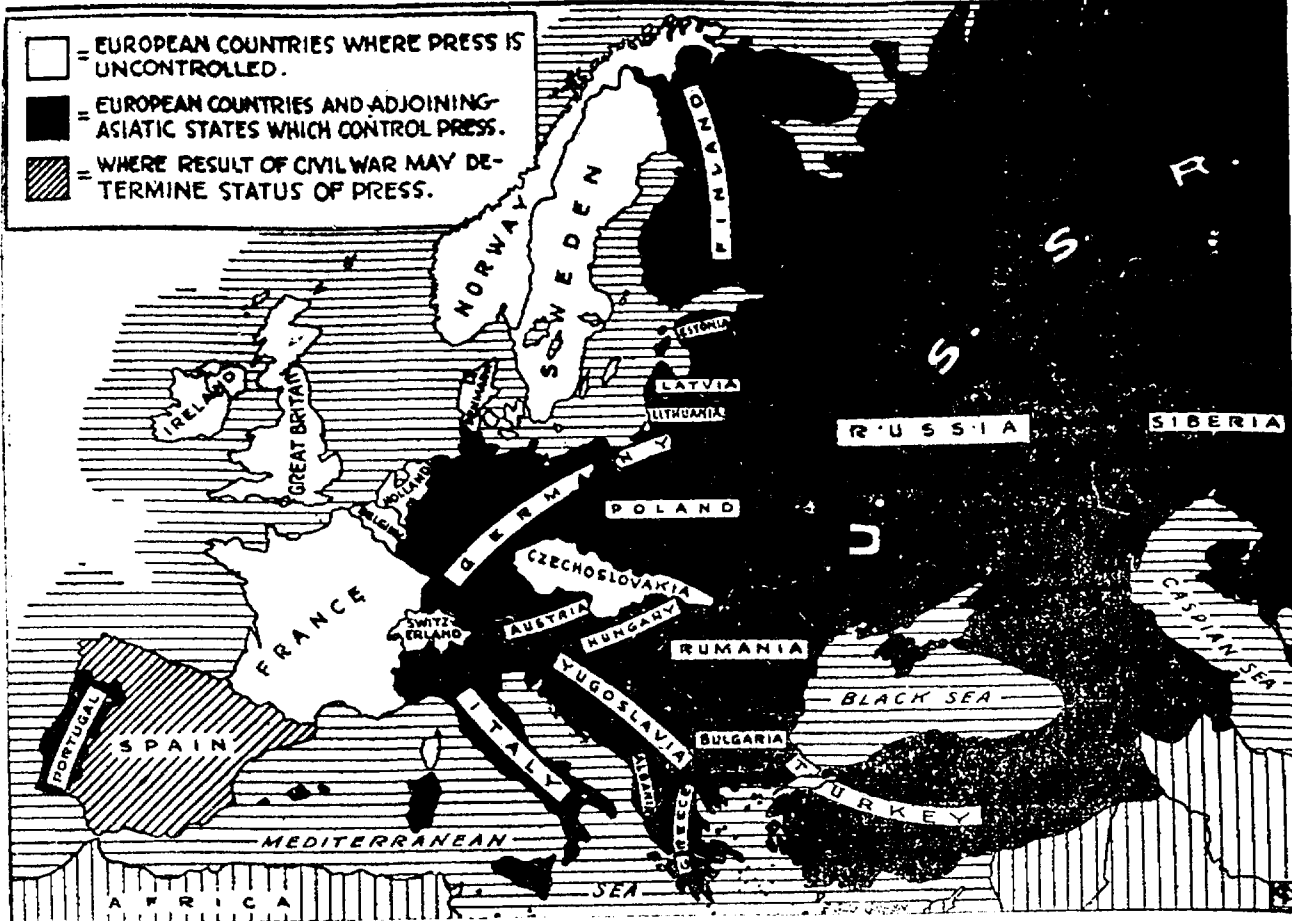

U. S. NEGOTIATES TRADE COMPACT FOR YUGOSLAVIA

BELGRADE, July 30 (UP)—The antiquated 58-year-old existing trade treaty between Yugoslavia and the United States soon will be replaced by a new pact, according to present indications.

The present agreement, which was concluded between Washington and pre-war Serbia on Oct. 14, 1881, is among the world's most venerable documents of this kind which have remained in force.

Failure of this treaty to be adjusted to modern trade conditions has greatly hampered the development of normal relations between the two countries. In fact, the exchange of goods with the United States has come almost to a standstill in the last two years because of the strict application by the Belgrade government of a clearing system with countries which purchased less from than

Press Muzzled in Much of Europe Now

Self-explanatory map of status of press in Europe today.

FREEDOM of the press is an outcast in much of Europe today. Only in the two great democracies of Great Britain and France and the seven small democracies, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland and Czechoslovakia may newspapers publish opinions contrary to the opinions of the government of the day. Dictator nations control the news. The map above, self-explanatory, shows where freedom of the press no longer exists today.

Chief of Police Sees City Profit in Numbers

Police Chief William McCrady voiced his ideas about the number racket, Thursday afternoon, when seated in City Hall waiting for something to happen to break the monotony of a quiet day.

"They can't break up the number game no matter how hard they try," he said, "because it is getting too big. But smaller cities, including Circleville, could get some revenue out of it while it is operating."

"In Columbus and in other cities the courts are satisfied to take a $25 cash bond for each person arrested. Rather than face a stiffer fine, the defendant fails to return for his hearing so the court orders the bond forfeited. Maybe a couple of weeks later the same person is arrested again for engaging in the number game. The same procedure is followed, and the municipality treasury is aided again by $25."

McCrady is of the opinion that Circleville could gain the same revenue. The racket is still operated in the county seat, the chief admitted, and "there isn't any way it can be broken up," he declared.

In Columbus, the chief pointed out, the same man may be arrested twice in a month. That costs him $50, which the city puts into its treasury. He continues to write his numbers, and helps himself to a livelihood.

Several persons have been arrested in Circleville for participating in the racket, but in nearly all instances defendants have been fined much more than $25. Charles White, of Lancaster, arrested recently for the sheriff, is free on $1,000 bond pending a trial in Judge J. W. Adkins' court for participating in the racket early in June.

SCENE SET FOR FIRST RACE OF "MUG" SERIES

Sopwith More Confident In Shell Than Before Last Defeat

TILTS START SATURDAY

Result In Doubt Following Defeat of Ranger By Discarded Craft

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30. — (UP)—The ocean is here, kicking up white caps off Brenton reef, as it always has.

T. O. M. Sopwith is here, a little cockier than in 1934. Mike Vanderbilt is here, as sure, as cold, as calculating as ever.

Endeavour II and Ranger are here, their slender shells bobbing and weaving to the harbor's gentle swell, their towering masts swaying like twin jonesome pines.

They are all here—ocean, skippers, boats, and spectators. And tomorrow, shortly before high noon, they will combine to produce that most exclusive, that expensive, and that most unusual of all the sports extravaganzas — the America's cup races.

American holds the cup — has held it since the first race off the Isle of Wight in 1851. Britain, represented by Sopwith, is the challenger.

Today no one knew the answer to the best four-of-seven series which starts tomorrow. Everybody thought they knew until yesterday when Vanderbilt's Ranger, with the mighty Mike himself at the helm, took a licking from Endeavour I, which failed in its 1934 challenge, and which was discarded by Sopwith this year in favor of a new Endeavour.

It was Ranger's first defeat. Thirteen times the big white hulled sloop had put out to sea against earnest rivals, and 13 times she had come footing across the line a winner.

But yesterday, in a 37-mile run from Vineyard Haven to Newport, Ranger could do no better than third to Endeavour I and the venerable Yankee. The 1934 challenger finished three minutes and 23 seconds ahead of the current defender, and in yachting that is a sound and thorough trouncing.

Today that race had created two schools of thought. School No. 1, which is pro-British argued that it proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that Ranger was no super-boat, and that Endeavour II was capable of showing her a wake.

School No. 2—which included among its pupils some of the galest racing critics in the business—argued just as heatedly that the race meant nothing. They pointed out that it was run under conditions which wouldn't be encountered in an America's cup duel once in a hundred years.

Certainly, the race in which

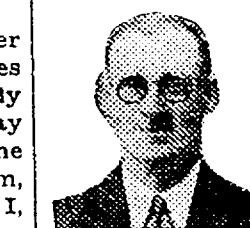

Ranger was licked was not a very true one. The boats started off in the face of a foul tide—a tide so severe that the contenders often were forced to drop their hooks to avoid going backward. The first 20 miles required six hours—The last 17 miles were covered in 90 minutes. In these last 17 miles, when the breeze was decent, Ranger gained steadily on Endeavour I. This was admitted even by Sherman Hoyt, who was at the wheel of the winner.

Hoyt, rated next to Vanderbilt when American skippers are mentioned, said Ranger picked up more than two minutes in the last 17 miles.

Endeavour II will remain idle today, but Ranger may go out for a spin in the concluding race of the Eastern Yacht Club's gathering. Vanderbilt, who has shocked the old-timers by racing the defender after she was named to protect the treasured trophy, showed no disposition to "save" himself or his boat until the chips were down.

Endeavour II, by refusing to enter formal competition, has established itself a "mystery" boat. No one knows what she can do. Her races have all been against Endeavour I, and all were held miles out at sea, far from prying eyes. The two sloops were given final examinations by the shipyard medics early this week. They were hauled to Drydock and given a fine-tooth comb going over. Their bottoms were scraped, their keels and hulls scrubbed, and

PAINS IN BACK WERE UNBEARABLE

Every move caused agony. Vendol acted as diuretic to kidneys giving grand relief.

Mr. George Wallace of The Plains near Athens, Ohio, says: "I suffered agonies from pains in my back, arms and legs. Many nights I couldn't sleep and was a great effort to work. A few bottles of Vendol acted as a diuretic to my kidneys and brought the first relief in months. Vendol is wonderful."

Vendol is made from Nature's Roots and Herbs mixed with valuable laxative bringing out awful gases and impurities which may have been causing you many days of misery from headaches, dizziness, spots before the eyes, tired, worn-out feeling and nervousness. It acts as a diuretic to sluggish kidneys, relieving backache, pains in the arms and limbs. Vendol relieves indigestion, gas bloating, shortness of breath, excess acid in stomach, sallow complexion, boils, eruptions and many other troubles due to constipation.

Take Vendol and you will enjoy such a pleasant cleansing and invigorating effect that you will FEEL like a different person and LOOK years younger.

CCC FOOD BILL FOR YEAR SET AT 50 MILLION

Pack Animals Will Help Distribute Some of Vast Supply

MANY CAMPS ARE REMOTE

4,680 Acres of Beans Used By American Youths

WASHINGTON, July 30—(UP)—The Civilian Conservation Corps will have a $50,000,000 food bill during the 1938 fiscal year, the Quartermaster Corps of the army has estimated.

Railroads, trucks and in some cases pack animals are resorted to in solving the problem of keeping a constant supply of food moving into the camps.

Some of the camps, which now number nearly 2,000, are located at high elevations in densely wooded, almost inaccessible areas far from hard-surfaced roads. Also, in many instances camps are located in sections remote from the supply facilities regularly maintained by the army in each of its nine corps areas.

Nearly half of the rations of CCC enrollees are perishable supplies, such as meat, poultry products, fresh vegetables, butter, fish, eggs, which are purchased locally.

Eggs From Million Chickens
The daily production by 1,000,000 chickens is required to keep the CCC enrollees supplied with eggs, the quartermaster corps estimates. Approximately 844,000 hogs will be slaughtered during the year to provide bacon and lard. Pork for the camps will come from 1,038,468 hogs.

The daily milk output of 14,404 cows will be used for fresh milk and the daily output from an additional 4,260 cows will be used for evaporated milk. Farmers will dig 101,076 acres of potatoes for the unlucky enrollee on mess duty to peel. The enrollees will pour syrup pressed from 1,764 acres of maple groves and cane patches over their wheat cakes.

Beans From 4,680 Acres
Cultivation of 4,680 acres of beans will be necessary to provide CCC camps throughout the year. The daily output of 75,000 corps will be used for butter, and the output of 4,260 cows will be used for cheese. At present enrollees who have received their training in actual work at the camps and in short, intensive courses at corps area schools for bakers and cooks perform all culinary duties. Originally, virtually all of the cooks for the CCC were enlisted men of the regular army who were graduates of the service's bakers' and cooks' schools.

Questions and Answers

Can you give me a recipe for Spiced Tea?

Spiced Tea is a summertime favorite and may be made in this manner:

- Spiced Tea
6 C. boiling water
1 tsp. whole cloves
1 tsp. whole allspice
1 small stick cinnamon
6 Tbsp. orange juice
4 Tbsp. lemon juice
Sugar syrup
Mint
6 tsp. tea

Four boiling water over allspice, cloves, and cinnamon. Cover and let boil 3 minutes. Add tea. Let steep about 3 minutes. Strain. Cool, then add orange and lemon juice. Sweeten to taste with sugar syrup which is made by boiling equal quantities of water and sugar until syrup forms. Serve in tall glasses with cracked ice. Garnish with sprig of mint. Serves six.

Can you tell me how to make fresh mint sauce for serving with lamb roasts or chops?

Fresh mint sauce is made from finely chopped mint and vinegar with a dash of sugar for flavor. Here's a standard recipe:

- Fresh Mint Sauce
1/2 C. finely chopped fresh mint leaves
1/2 C. vinegar
1/2 C. water
1 Tbsp. sugar, preferably XXXX
1/2 tsp. salt

Combine ingredients and let stand one-half hour in a warm place. Strain if desired, and serve hot or cold. The flecks of green left in the sauce make it look especially fresh, if you care for it that way.

Grandmother used to make a spiced gooseberry jam that was delicious. Do you have a recipe for this old-fashioned spread?

Indeed, it is a treat to serve Spiced Gooseberry Jam. Here's a recipe that we think you'll like:

- Spiced Gooseberry Jam
3 C. gooseberries, cleaned
1 1/2 C. sugar
1 Tbsp. cloves
2 sticks whole cinnamon
1/4 C. vinegar

Remove the stem and blossom ends from the gooseberries. Mix the sugar, spices and vinegar, and boil together for about 10 minutes to form a thick syrup that spins a thread when dropped from the spoon. Strain to remove the spices. Pour syrup over the gooseberries and boil, stirring almost constantly until as thick as jam, allowing for the fact that it thickens as it cools. Pour into a pint jar. This jam will keep indefinitely in a cool place. Yield: 1 pint.

Fee Set for Pie Thrower

MARYSVILLE, Cal. (UP)—New sports are developing on the Pacific Coast. When Charlie Merz entered the restaurant of Dolly Gray and espied a row of newly baked pies he asked what it would cost to throw one at the proprietor. "One dollar," said Gray. Merz threw the pie, Gray ducked and collected.

God Leads a People
"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug. 1 is Exodus 13:17-15:21, especially 13:17-22; 14:10-15, the Golden Text being Isaiah 58:11, "The Lord will guide thee continually.")

ISRAEL'S redemption from Egyptian bondage is typical of our redemption from the bondage of sin. God leads his redeemed hosts over a highway of salvation even as he opened a way for Israel through the sea.

The Safe Way
The short cut from Goshen to Canaan might have been made in a journey of 10 days. But this would have taken Israel through the country of the war-like Philistines. They were not yet ready to meet such warriors. They would have become discouraged and returned to Egypt. So God led them by the safer way southward where the Red sea would cut off return to Egypt. So as God at times closes a way to us it is but to open to us a better and safer though it be a longer and more difficult way.

"Lead Kindly Light"
"And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night: he took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, nor before the people." And to us he says, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

we must PROCEED in the way he leads us: "The Lord said unto Moses, wherefore cryest thou unto me? Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward." Up to a certain point we must ask God and after that we must tell people. When God says, "Forward! March!" even prayer may not delay, we must proceed. In all of this God has a PROGRAM in which he knows the end from the beginning: "The children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea" (verses 16-18). In this program God provides PROTECTION for his people: "The angel of God, which went before the camp of Israel, removed and went behind them" (verse 19). Thus God always stands between us and our foes. Furthermore he exercises his POWER for our deliverance: "And the Lord caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind" (verse 21). He also metes out PUNISHMENT upon his foes and ours: "For the Lord fighteth for them against the Egyptians" (verse 24). The object of it all was the PRESERVATION of his people: "Thus the Lord saved Israel that day...and the people feared the Lord, and believed the Lord" (verses 30, 31). And the result was a great hymn of PRAISE: "Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the Lord" (15:1-22).

OPEN LETTERS

TO CITY OFFICIALS

AUTHORITIES: The fist fight and beer mug throwing contest staged in a S. Scioto street establishment early last Sunday is another bit of proof why the city safety department should be more careful, and much more rigid in its enforcement of laws that prohibit operation of nuisances. If supervision of beer parlors was ever needed it is right now in Circleville. Saturday nights have become dreaded in various parts of the city where fighting is an expected weekly "entertainment". There is only one thing to do, and that is to order the police force to "clamp down" on managers who permit crowds to get out of their control. Bring them into court for operating nuisances and make your "instructions" emphatic enough that a second warning will not be necessary. A little bit of rigid law enforcement on the part of city officials will go a long way in cleaning up a situation that may some day end in a fatality. And to Mayor Graham: Your complete support of your police department in any attempt it might make to right this problem would be appreciated.

CIRCUITEER

TO PUMPKIN SHOWERS

FRIENDS: I observe with more than passing interest that your advertising program this year calls for elimination of bumper signs for automobiles. I believe that you are taking a backward step instead of a forward one in this move. Signs put on the bumpers of selected automobiles would advertise the show for many miles and in many cities and states. Circleville has enough tradesmen on the road to give the Pumpkin Show widespread publicity. A couple of hundred bumper signs should do the desired work. As well known as the Pumpkin Show really is, it still needs publicity. Bumper signs seem to me to be one of the best ways to obtain part of this advertising. Please have your advertising man reconsider his plan to eliminate the bumper placards.

TO HEALTH AUTHORITIES

OFFICIALS: Warnings have been issued to persons raising hogs in the outskirts of the city to keep their pens clean and in this way to eliminate obnoxious odors. Proper authorities should be certain that these warnings are heeded. Many persons who do not breed hogs do not appreciate these odors and they are complaining, for which I hardly blame them. Hogs are the means of a livelihood for several families, but the handwriting on the wall says that legislation will be voted soon to order all hogs out of the city limits unless their pens are kept clean.

CIRCUITEER

TO FARM FOLK

MEN OF SOIL: Several complaints have been phoned to the sheriff in the last few weeks concerning trouble with itinerant laborers. I realize that you have had much difficulty in obtaining enough workmen to handle your harvest, but I believe that it would be a good thing if you employed hands with whom you or your neighbors are acquainted. The National Re-employment Service office in Circleville has names of men who want farm work, and a telephone call to this office would be almost certain to provide you with sufficient assistance. Check forgery charges, thefts and other law violations of more or less importance are prevalent at this time of the year. You can help yourself and the sheriff by being as careful as you can in employment of your aids.

TO CHARLES RADCLIFF

SHERIFF: Your statement this week that you will not tolerate activities of gamblers in your county is received with much pleasure by the persons that you represent. Big-town racketeers learned several years ago to remain out of Pickaway county with their nefarious schemes. Your warning should prove an ample reminder to many of these persons, who are finding their trades becoming much more difficult since officials have gained nerve enough to put a damper on their operations.

CIRCUITEER

TO HARVESTERS

FOLK: Straw stack fires in the last few days have brought you sinister warnings to be careful that you do nothing which might cause conflagrations with much more serious endings. Barns were threatened in two instances in different parts of the county. It is possible that residences and household furnishings, and other items of value may be destroyed through the lack of care. It would be a good idea if all threshing could be done far enough away from buildings to forestall any danger of great loss through flames. It is no trick at all to ignite straw stacks, but it is a difficult task to extinguish a fire once it has started.

CIRCUITEER

TO SPORTSMEN

COUNTIANS: It has been called to my attention that, despite the expense involved in construction of the canal park, sportsmen are not taking the proper interest in the resort. It is becoming run down, and it is not near so attractive as it was a year ago even during the course of construction. The county sportsman's club should see that the park is kept up as hoped for. Much work was done by interested sportsmen before the project was obtained, now that it is completed these same persons should do what they can to see that it is kept in suitable condition.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

READ THIS FIRST: Ambitious to become a dress designer, Mary Barrett accidentally meets Countess Anetka, owner of a small New York dress shop. After examining some of her sketches, he offers her a job. They see more and more of one another and begin to fall in love. During the absence of Francis Long, Tony's head buyer who dislikes Mary, the latter successfully designs some gowns for an important client, Miss Weston, a leading actress. Something goes wrong during the final fitting, the actress goes into a tantrum and Tony publicly berates himself for letting Mary, still inexperienced, design the gowns. Mary feels certain Miss Long purposely altered one of the dresses. Leaving Tony's shop without a word, Mary decides to go abroad. En route to Paris she meets Mark Sutherland, wealthy playboy. In Paris, Mark, already finding work. By pre-arrangement she meets Mark there. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

"Have you ever been to Brittany?"

CHAPTER 10
"I DON'T WANT to take my back hair down and be sympathized with, Mark. Let's forget that I said anything about it," suggested Mary in answer to his plea that she tell him her troubles. She smiled across the table at Mark. She didn't want him to sympathize with her. Mark wasn't a big brother, an old friend—or even a new one, she thought suddenly. No, decidedly, Mark had none of the attributes of a friend. Mark was a playboy and a gay companion and not someone to use as a shoulder. Mark couldn't understand her. He had never known what either ambition or work meant. He had never known any deprivation. It wasn't likely that they would ever meet on any common ground.

For now, she was content to enjoy him, to enjoy the minor luxury of what he had to offer, to bask in the pleasures his ease and assurance had to give her. She didn't mean to confuse any issues. Had she been a different type of girl, Mary Barrett would have found him a matrimonial prospect beyond compare. But then, Mary Barrett would have had to be a little less intelligent, and a little less ambitious, and a little less of the attributes of a friend. Mary had the whole thing quite clear in her mind, and she had never illusions nor designs.

Having forgotten herself so far as to have mentioned her state of mind, she recovered quickly and changed the subject at once. "Nor did Mark return to it until several hours later. It was hot and breathless in Paris that August night. They took a carriage and rode out toward Versailles. Clonnelly clon. The horse's hooves beat musically on the pavement. Their voices were low, restful. Mary forgot that the day had been dark with gathering disappointment, and that she had come to feel pitifully young and alone and helpless.

Mark took her unprotesting hand into his. "Since you don't want to tell me about it, suppose I tell you what I know?" "Who's being psychic now?" she answered with an attempt at lightness. "Tried to fool Mark, didn't you?" "Only myself, Mark."

"Then you were wrong only once." Mary liked him for that. "Shall I tell you what I know you've been doing?" She sighed and said he might as well. "Then I know you've been to all the grandes couturiers. You've been to all the employment agencies that guarantee to find jobs for American girls. You've been to the big shops and a lot of the little ones. And the answer has been the same."

"You don't have to be very smart to know that, Mark. No ungraciousness intended."

"You couldn't be ungracious if you wanted to be. What surprises me is that you aren't curious."

"Curious?" "Didn't I tell you that I had news for you?"

"Tell me... tell me at once! Of course I'm curious."

"Now, then, did I ever tell you about my friend, Countess Anetka Illovitch?" "You've never told me about any women, although I suspect you are knee deep in admiring ones from here to Istanbul."

He made her a mock bow. "I'm not going to boast about my conquests. Besides, I shall consider I've never had any until I wear your scalp on my gold-plated girde."

"Nice, modest fellow! With a gift for turning a phrase, too!" "Young lady, you have a gift for turning me off my subject. To return to Anetka: She's an utterly charming, rattle-brained little Russian emigre. A great girl! And a dressmaker. Or so she thinks."

Mary's eyes widened when she heard that. "Go on," she demanded eagerly. "Anetka has a little hole in the wall on the third floor of an old house in the St. Germain district. There's a flock of places just like hers over there. She does have the jump on the others though because she has a small patronage of Russians who fared better than she, and a handful of Americans."

"Yes, yes," Mary urged when he paused for breath. "It's a very minor establishment. Not the sort for a 'successful designer like yourself."

Mary laughed. "Now that you've seen all the way through me, Mark, please don't hold it over me. Do go on."

"Very well, I hope for the same sportmanship from you. To continue: Anetka really doesn't need anyone; she does have rather a hard time getting by with one seamstress and an errand girl, but if you are interested—she thinks she can give you a small berth. I don't know about the financial arrangements."

Mary caught her breath and tried to work out mathematics in a mind that simply couldn't do figures. Hazily, she realized that she still had a reasonable nest egg. And if she had a job in a dressmaking house owned by a Russian countess...

Suddenly the overwhelming importance of it struck her. She might actually, in a house that was small, have a chance to do the thing that her heart was set on!

She wanted to throw her arms around Mark Sutherland's neck. And she would have if she hadn't remembered the thing that Tony had taught her. Control your impulses! She counted to 20. Then she said very simply: "Mark, that's sweet of you. I wish that there was something terribly nice that I could do for you."

Mark lit a cigarette slowly, letting the match burn to its tip. His eyes were inscrutable as he fixed them on the match. "Perhaps there is."

"What?" "Have you ever been to Brittany?"

She shook her head. "You'll like it. We'll drive down Friday. I'm sure Anetka won't be in any hurry for you to start."

Mary straightened primly. "Sorry," she said. "My itinerary doesn't include any side excursions with young men in motors, planes, boats, trains or kiddie cars. Thanks for the offer anyway. And the offer at the countess'."

Mark sighed resignedly. "Okay. You can't blame a man for trying. It was my move and I made it. Sorry?"

She shook her head—not too convincingly. "However," he continued pleasantly, "the job is still there. Try to get in to see Anetka tomorrow morning. Remember the lunch hour in France lasts for two hours and the small shops close." He wrote shakily on one of his cards as their carriage jogged along.

Mary watched him trying to write. She folded her arms and contemplated him with a perplexed expression wrinkling the smoothness of her brow. After a few moments, she shook her head in a puzzled movement.

"I don't know what you're up to, Mark. I really don't understand you. And it's only fair for me to tell you that I don't care much for childish games."

"Lady, there's nothing childish about my games," he assured her. "Well, I'm not sure that I can play it, whatever it is."

"You're playing right now, but you aren't aware of it—or are you? It's the old parlor game—strictly American—of Matching Wits. I respect a good partner but I'm not above taking advantage of a good opening."

"I might quit in the middle of the game," she warned. "Not you!"

Way Found to Prevent Infantile Paralysis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE HAVE at last some hope that infantile paralysis can be prevented. This by means of instillations of zinc sulphate into the nose.

In the presence of an epidemic of poliomyelitis, heretofore have had no reliable advice to give to anxious parents who begged for some way of keeping the disease away from their children. It did no good to move away from a center of epidemic, for no one knew which way the disease would spread. If a family went from New York to Boston, there might be just as many cases in Boston by the time they reached there. Preventive serums or vaccines have not proved successful. Now we have a simple treatment that may do the work.

The method has not as yet been thoroughly tested out on human beings in the presence of an epidemic. Experiments on monkeys, the only other animal yet found subject to the disease, are the basis for the hope expressed. But this is very convincing; there is no reason to suppose that humans would act unlike monkeys in this type of tissue response.

Zinc sulphate has long been used in treating diseases of the eyes and nose. There has never been any instance of harm resulting from its use. Zinc is a harmless metal and never causes any form of poisoning. So there is no danger in using the suggested treatment freely.

The results in animals have been most striking. It is possible to give a monkey infantile paralysis by spraying the virus into its nose. In a large group of animals, a 1 per cent solution of zinc sulphate was sprayed into the nose and a month later a heavy dose of the virus was administered. None of the animals succumbed to the disease, although the dose of virus was so heavy that 90 per cent of a group of control animals were infected.

The virus of infantile paralysis enters the body through the nose and travels up the olfactory nerve (the nerve of smell) to enter the central nervous system. The zinc sulphate solution, to be effective, must be applied directly to the olfactory membrane. For this reason, the method will be effective only when employed by a physician familiar with the anatomy of the nose and able to apply the solution to the olfactory membrane.

As now recommended, the 1 per cent zinc sulphate solution is mixed with a mild local anesthetic, because the straight solution causes some disagreeable burning sensations at times. A single spray on each olfactory area is sufficient to protect for two weeks, or probably better, however, to repeat it on three successive days. The sense of smell is temporarily lost or impaired, but always returns to normal within two weeks.

The experimental investigations on which this work was based were made possible by a grant from the President's Birthday Ball Commission for Infantile Paralysis Research.

Dinner Stories

INSUFFICIENCY OF EVIL:

A man went to a summer resort hotel on the New Jersey coast and signed up to stay ten weeks. After a few days he approached the proprietor and said:

"I can't stand it here any longer. The fish you had on Friday was not fit for a cat, and the meat you had on Sunday was not fit for a dog. Besides, the portions were altogether too small."

BITTEN BY A LOAN SHARK?
The men were arguing who was the greatest inventor. One said Stephenson, who invented the locomotive. Another declared it was the man who invented the compass. Another contended for Edison.

Finally, one of them turned to a little man who had remained silent. "What do you think?" "The man who invented interest was no slouch," was the reply.

THE WHY OF IT

"I sent my husband to the hospital because of his knee?" "Did he have water on it?" "No; his private secretary."

World At A Glance

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky generally is pictured with a broad smile on his face. It is artificial; put on for the photographers.

Barkley hasn't much to smile about; he has his worries.

He won the Democratic senatorial leadership, to be sure, but it is a leadership which is a terrible headache. It wasn't even much of a compliment to him, either—37 to 38. If the 37 Democratic senators who voted against him refuse to follow his lead, and if the small Republican group joins them, he isn't, in fact, a majority leader; he leads only a minority.

It is not so bad to be the leader of a party which has to admit, frankly, that it is in a minority. Like Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, generalissimo of the Republicans' senatorial faction.

McNary simply bushwhacks. That is all he is expected to do. If he is beaten, folk say, "Well, what of it, with 76 Democrats in the senate versus a mere 18 Republicans?" Not counting four miscellaneous, at least two of whom are pro-New Dealers. But if, because of a lot of Democratic flops to the Republican side, McNary scores a victory, it's wonderful. What marvelous management by the Oregonian!

But if Barkley is licked, not withstanding a nearly 5-to-1 nominal advantage, it is difficult to escape the conclusion that he has bungled. And if he wins it is no particular credit to him.

TWO TYPES OF GENERALS
In warfare there are two kinds of generals.

One kind is triumphant in battle. The other kind effects masterly retreats.

The latter kind isn't to be despised. George Washington was one of the species. He kept on retreating until the victors could not stand it any longer and were defeated.

Maybe Barkley will prove himself equal to managing a successful retreat from the supreme court fight.

But it is a harder strategic maneuver than McNary's. It isn't anything to be smiled about. It involves serious thought, to save his party from disintegration. McNary can afford to let nature take its course. Barkley has got to do some celebrating.

BARKLEY ROUGH HEWN
He isn't at all times a very smiling senator.

He is a rough-hewn individual, who grew up on a farm and has a farmer's individualistic manner. They say that, in his agricultural days, he wanted to be a drygoods store clerk, in order to wear fashionable clothes and be "folksy". He has got over that.

If he has any diplomacy in his system I haven't discovered it. He hasn't it in his contacts with newspapermen, anyway.

(Senator Harrison doesn't bulge with it, either.)

NOT "DEAR ALBEN"
Another thing: Barkley does not like to be spoken to as "Dear Alben."

President Roosevelt addressed him in his letter to "Dear Alben" on the supreme court subject, directly after the death of the Democrats' late leader, Senator Joseph T. Robinson.

It was supposed to imply that the White House had chosen to designate "Dear Alben" as its sitting new leader, without awaiting the senate Democrats' voice in the matter. And the senate Democrats thought they ought to be left to make their own selection.

So Senator Barkley generally is addressed, not on the senate floor (that would be unparliamentary), but in the lobbies and corridors, as "Dear Alben." If that makes him smile at all, it is with an effort. It is a practical joke, and he doesn't like it.

You're Telling Me!

"I STILL SAY," insisted the man at the next desk, "there are too many isms in this world. Everywhere you look there is an ism. And everything is connected with one or more of them and everybody believes in at least one ism or so."

"There are," he continued, "meteorologists, archeologists, pathologists, paleontologists, astrologists, theologians and a million more like that."

"Isn't the isms that get me groggy," said the boss secretary.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WOULD HAVE BID AGAIN ACCURATE reading of an opponent's holding can result not only from what he does, but from what he does not do. The indirect inference that a certain honor is not in a particular hand is sometimes made clear by the fact that an additional bid would have been made if the hand had possessed that strength in addition to what already had appeared.

Here South opened the bidding with 1-Heart, West overcalled with 1-Spade, North bid 2-Diamonds, South 2-Hearts, North 3-Hearts and South 4.

The spade K was West's opening lead, which South won with the Ace. The diamond K was cashed and the diamond Q overtaken with the Ace. On the diamonds J and 10 two spades were sluffed, West ruffing the latter. West came back with another spade, which South ruffed and led the club 5 to the Q, which held.

The declarer now had lost one trick when West ruffed the diamond and knew he must lose to the club Ace, which he now placed with West, so that the success of his contract depended upon whether he could limit his loss in the trump suit to one trick. He led made clear by the fact that an additional bid would have been made if the hand had possessed that strength in addition to what already had appeared.

South's line of reasoning, in going up with the heart K, was that if West held the heart Ace in addition to the club Ace and the spade honor that had been shown he would have bid again or possibly doubled.

vessel was ablaze from bow to stern. Screaming passengers leaped into the bay. The crew apparently stayed by until the last. Rescue boats put out from the shore and hauled many out of the water.

Captain Charles Brooks, master of the City of Baltimore, was rescued. He said he was the last to leave his ship and that he personally had supervised the departure of passengers and crew.

The ship was steering a course midway in the channel with land two and one half miles away on either side. The shores are dotted with summer cottages and the occupants of these put out quickly in motor launches, sail boats, row boats. A great rescue fleet was around the vessel even while she burned highest. To this was attributed the comparatively low loss of life.

FORMER RECTOR,
TURNED LION
TAMER, KILLED

SKENESS, England, July 30.—(UP)—Harold Davidson, unfrocked rector of Stiffkey, died today while crowds flocked to see the lion that mauled him as he played his side-show role in "Davidson in the lions' den."

As he lay dying, enterprising promoters of his show at an nearby amusement park drew great crowds with a sign which read: "Latest bulletin: Rector's condition very grave."

"See the lions that mauled and injured the rector, and the plucky girl who went to his rescue."

Davidson inadvertently stepped on the paw of a lioness, and an old male, roused by her roar, attacked him. The former Church of England rector, unfrocked on charges of immorality, was "preaching" in his "lions' den."

The trial was scheduled the first time for March 17. It was postponed to April 19, and then to Aug. 2.

SALARY BOOST
NOT TO AFFECT COUNTY BOARD

Present county commissioners will not share in the salary increase based on population under the Ward act, Attorney General Herbert Duffy has ruled.

Under the act, which goes into effect Aug. 15, salaries of Pickaway county commissioners would have been boosted from $1,338.60 annually to about $1,550.

Under the new ruling, however, only new commissioners elected after the act is in effect, can receive the increase.

The angle will make a strange condition in Circleville beginning Jan. 1, 1939. Only one commissioner is to be elected in November, 1937, the successful candidate taking office the first of the year. He will draw $1,550 in salary while his two colleagues, Ralph E. May and John B. Keller, will each be working for $1,338.60 annually. The term of C. Edward Wright, of Harrison township, expires at the end of 1938.

MURPHY VETOES LABOR BILL AS TOO STRINGENT

LANSING, Mich., July 30.—(UP)—Gov. Frank Murphy planned a special session of the legislature today to reconsider a more liberal state labor relations bill which, in its original form, placed strict limitations on picketing.

Murphy vetoed the original bill last night, an hour before it would have become law automatically. The bill would have made it unlawful for workers to picket any factory in which they were not employed, or to block a public highway or close the entrances or exits of private property.

The legislature was scheduled to adjourn its regular session at noon today. Murphy planned to recall it at 2 p. m.

Five weeks ago Murphy called the bill he vetoed one of the most advanced pieces of labor legislation yet passed in this country.

FEDERALS BUY
COUNTY LAND

The Scioto Farms office in Atlanta employs 12 persons.

As each project is completed more work is started. With the completion of each project families will be assigned to farms. The Immel tract will be the first ready for farm families.

Authorities of the Scioto Farms, title of the Resettlement project, plan careful investigation of families assigned to Pickaway county properties. Tenants occupying the farms before their sale to the government will be given first chance at possession, it is understood by county officials. Other families living on submarginal land now being taken over by the government in its forest conservation program will be given chances to obtain farms, provided their knowledge of farming is sufficient to warrant possession.

Lumber From Atlanta. All lumber for the projects is being handled by the government's three large saws at Atlanta. The plant employs 25 men and many trucks and drivers to transport the timber to the mill. The plant's stock includes about 2,000 feet of lumber.

While Pickaway county has by far the greatest number of acres in the farm program, there is some Ross and Fayette county land included.

inance in Northern China was given by a foreign office spokesman.

MOP UP TIENTSIN. TIENTSIN, July 30.—(UP)—Japanese soldiers, moving still after areas of Tientsin, mopped up the city today, searching for armed Chinese on whom they could wreak vengeance for North China's affront to the imperial army.

Fighting had dwindled to minor clashes in the suburbs, and the Japanese war machine as at Peiping, had triumphed.

Fires smoldered in the native part of the city, burning still after yesterday's merciless airplane bombardment. Bodies shattered in the rain of bombs lay on the river banks, some floated slowly down toward the sea.

SHANGHAI, July 30.—(UP)—A Chinese government army is pouring into Northern China to challenge the Japanese war machine to a finish fight, it was said authoritatively today.

Vanguards of the army have arrived in the neighborhood of Tientsin and at Changhsintien, eight miles southwest of Peiping, to reinforce their comrades of the North.

For the present, it seemed a touch-and-go matter whether there was a formal break in diplomatic relations if not an actual declaration of war.

The question was whether the government troops arrived in sufficient number to join in battle before Japanese war planes and machine guns blasted the Chinese Northern men from their positions in the fighting zone.

Long trainloads of men and supplies were moving northward to the great Chinese army base at Paoingfu, 75 miles South of Peiping on the Hankow railroad, and thence on to the war area.

Disjointed dispatches over crippled communications systems, and by the United States marine wireless station at Peiping, told of a nightmare of bombing, fighting, and raging fires.

PEIPING, July 30.—(UP)—(By U. S. Marine Radio to Shanghai)—Peiping returned toward quiet today while fighting continued outside the city and dispirited, disorganized Chinese troops retreated under Japanese fire from the old capital.

PRINCE CONSTANTIN TO FLY AIRPLANE TO U. S. FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 30.—(UP)—Prince Constantin Cantacuzino of Rumania plans to fly from some point in Europe to the United States early in August, Hans Mirrow, famed Alaskan flier, said today.
